Studio grade connectivity.

Your studio needs more than accessible patching – audio quality throughout every signal chain is essential. Black Lion Audio has been trusted for years for modifying the best gear and making it better, and that's what it took to create the new PBR patchbay series.

Every PBR product uses audiophile-grade connectors. Every contact point is gold-plated; a major factor that's missing from most patchbays that you might have encountered. Black Lion's team of engineers have worked tirelessly to ensure that the PBR series delivers proper quality through-and-through.

The PBR patchbay series is also built Black Lion-tough, with black-anodized aluminum faceplates that also make for a matched and sophisticated look.

PBR TRS

The PBR TRS is a 48 point TRS patchbay, built for the most demanding of studios. Mode-switching can be accessed via buttons on the rear panel for configuring normalization modes.

PBR TRS-BT

The PBR TRS-BT is a bit more than your average TRS patchbay – BT compatibility brings audio from your devices right into the mix of your rig! It sports a custom Black Lion Audio modded BT module armed with the very best codecs to provide lossless audio connectivity. This module not only brings in your device audio, but treats it in the best manner for professional audio production.

Mode-switching can be accessed via buttons on the rear panel for configuring normalization modes.

PBR XLR

The PBR XLR is a 16 point XLR patchbay for handling microphone and hardware XLR I/O. The front panel sports 12 female XLR connectors, and 4 male XLR connectors, making it a breeze to patch devices without digging behind your rack.
